

Mrs. A's social network

- Example of a district-centered network configuration

■ “we feel comfortable there, it gives us a hold, we have our friends there. Even more than friends, people who really accompany us and whom we allow to correct us.”

Mr. C's social network

- Example of a regionally dispersed network configuration

"I grew up there. I've been involved in the association for 20 years. It is important for me to keep in touch. Well, many friendships have developed over the years"
